

Dragana grew up in a family of teachers who instilled a love of learning and teaching into her. She graduated from the Faculty of Philosophy in Novi Sad at the Department of History. She works at “Kosta Trifkovic” Primary School in Novi Sad, as a professor of History. Curious and creative, she loves to learn something new every day, and she is ready to share her knowledge with others.

She is the co-author of the Erasmus + project “ Let`s Flip our Classroom” during which she is trained to “turn over” her classroom. She is also the co-author of the project “ Living Books in Schools “ which will help her students and herself to deal with their own bias. The course of The International School for the Study of The Holocaust in Jerusalem had a special influence on her professional as well as personal development. After this nothing is like it used to be.

She loves historical novels, jazz and fado music. She enjoys travelling and she is always ready for a new adventure and getting to know other cultures.
