

Mirjana, a teacher of English, always willing to travel and get to know other cultures. She has lived in Spain, Hungary, Austria and Greece. She is interested in architecture, books and running. Since people are all different in the way they perceive the world, she thinks that understanding, acceptance of diversity and good communication help us to spread knowledge and form better relationships. She works at "Kosta Trifkovic" Primary School in Novi Sad, and she has participated in an interesting K1 Erasmus + project. During this school year, within the Erasmus + K2 project "Living Books in Schools", she will be working with students at the School Volunteer Club together with her colleague Tamara Jovičić. She is a mother of two teenagers.
